

Bella Feldstein
February 14, 1923 – December 14, 2024

Born to Mary and Wolfe Mendelzys in Montreal, Quebec.

Predeceased by her husband, Joseph Feldstein, and brother, Al Mendelzys.

She is loved and will be missed by her brother Michael Mendell, daughter, Francine Brody, son, Robert Feldstein, and Bella's five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, their spouses and her extended family.

From her early teens, Bella was bookkeeper for the family Montreal business, Dominion Cord & Tassel, better known as Domcord.

Following working and raising her family in Montreal, she graduated to experience forty-six warm, active and happy retirement years in Florida.

Having taught herself to knit at 10 years of age, she became known for pulling out her knitting at every opportunity, either waiting for her turn to tee-off, bowl and between rounds of duplicate bridge.

Bridge club members Bella belonged to were encouraged by her dedication, and ultimately, the remarkable example she set by competently competing, two months short of her 102nd birthday.

Having lost many of those dear to her over the years, she leaves numerous memorable and loving friends in Florida, as well as those she cultivated in Victoria, where she lived out her final years. She died lucid, satisfied, peaceful and with dignity.
